

I selv - Far, Mor, Dahn, Erik, Finn, og lille, store Søs, er hermed alle mest hilset.- Tankerne er altid hos jer; tro på det bedste og vær aldrig bekymrede for mig, jeg tror dette her er mit tjenstlig-menneskelige gen-nembrud, og så er der jo det, at jeg i min fritid er fusker i den ædle sk-rivekunst, bare fusker.-

Ellen

Benk. -

— «Jeg har ikke fået et bud om at få med meg til en slik fest, men jeg er ikke i stand til å komme.» — «Det er ikke et problem,» sa han. «Du kan komme med meg til en annen fest.»

... "Kerfuffle" had been written by the author of "The Red House" and published in the "Daily Telegraph". The author of "The Red House" was a man named Mr. Charles H. H. Parry, who was a well-known author and poet. He had written many books and articles, and was a member of the Royal Society of Literature. He had also written a book called "The Red House" which was published in 1859. In this book, he described his experiences as a teacher in a small village in the English countryside. He wrote about the difficulties of teaching in a rural area, and the challenges of living in a simple house. He also wrote about the beauty of the English countryside, and the importance of nature in our lives. The book was a great success, and became a classic of English literature. It has been translated into many languages, and is still read and enjoyed today.